Re: Referral for Patient Michael Johnson
DOB: March 22, 1985

Dear Dr. Smith,

I am referring Mr. Michael Johnson, a 38-year-old male, for evaluation of chronic right knee pain that has persisted despite conservative management. Mr. Johnson reports a history of intermittent knee pain over the past year, which has recently worsened, affecting his ability to perform daily activities.

Clinical Summary:

- History: Onset of pain after a minor sports injury one year ago.
- Symptoms: Swelling, stiffness, and occasional locking of the knee joint.
- Previous Treatment: Physical therapy, NSAIDs, and corticosteroid injections with minimal relief.
- Imaging: Recent MRI indicates a possible meniscal tear.

Enclosed are copies of his medical records and imaging studies. Your expert evaluation and recommendations for further management are highly appreciated.

Please feel free to contact me if you require additional information.
